A word from our hosts

Dear members of the FBN community,

After two years of social distancing and distant socialization, it is time to finally meet again in person at our 31st FBN Global Summit, in Budapest, from September 28 to October 1. Together with our Hungarian host and member families, we are proud to present you what is promising to be an exciting program of interactive learning formats that spark new ideas and help build important relationships – sessions in plenary, parallel and small group gatherings; travel with other business families on in-country learning journeys and day-long family business visits; and sharing meals with new and old friends in spectacular surroundings.

We have gathered great speakers and facilitators, and put together an exciting program full of surprises on the theme of “The Art of Building Bridges in Family Business”: bridges between family and business, between generations, between family businesses, between family business and society.

Join us in family for this intimate and inspiring gathering. We are impatient to reconnect with you and look forward to welcoming you in the beautiful city of Budapest!

Summit program

The Art of Building Bridges speaks to every family business. Building Bridges is a long-term job to achieve goals. Divided in three days, we want to offer to all members an overview of experiences around: Design your Bridge, Build your Bridges and Cross your Bridge.

The program is designed around this common thread, is built in such a way as to achieve key learnings, and will be crossed by all FBN members.

This year, the Summit will gather member around plenary sessions, case studies, small groups discussion but also learning journeys, family visits, social activities...
